Problem Solving

The following family of parents and two teens have been church members for several years. They have rarely been involved in the activities of the church. The children are not in church school, and they have few close friends in the church. The parents often avoid communion and special events where there is a lot of spiritual activity. The parents have confided that none of them are growing spiritually. There is a desire for a change, but they are not sure just where to begin. There is fear they are going to be asked to get up front or go door-to-door. How would you help this family to enjoy living and sharing the Christian life?

6. Find at least one opportunity to explain what you have learned to one or more persons.

Ellen G. White Quotations

“All things both in heaven and in earth declare that the great law of life is a law of service.” (Education, p. 103).

“God can use every person just in proportion as He can put His Spirit into the soul temple. The work that He will accept is the work that reflects His image.” (The Ministry of Healing, p. 37).

“Not more surely is the place prepared for us in the heavenly mansions than is the special place designated on earth where we are to work for God.” (Christ's Object Lessons, p. 327).

“The specific place appointed us in life is determined by our capabilities. Not all reach the same development or do with equal efficiency the same work. God does not expect the hyssop to attain the proportions of the cedar, or the olive the height of the stately palm. But each should aim just as high as the union of human with divine power makes it possible for him to reach.” (Education, p. 267).

“The church is organized for service; and in a life of service to Christ, connection with the church is one of the first steps. Loyalty to Christ demands the faithful performance of church duties. This is an important part of one's training; and in a church imbued with the Master's life, it will lead directly to effort for the world without.” (Education, pp. 268, 269).

“Love and loyalty to Christ are the spring of all true service. In the heart touched by His love, there is begotten a desire to work for Him.” (Education, p. 268).

“He who begins with a little knowledge, in a humble way, and tells what he knows, while seeking diligently for further knowledge, will find the whole heavenly treasure awaiting his demand. The more he seeks to impart light, the more light he will receive. The more one tries to explain the word of God to others, with a love for souls, the plainer it becomes to himself. The more we use our knowledge and exercise our powers, the more knowledge and power we shall have.” (Christ's Object Lessons, p. 354).

“The value of service to God is measured by the spirit in which it is rendered, rather than by the length of time spent in labor.” (Testimonies for the Church, Vol. 9, p. 74).

“Not the amount of labor performed or its visible results but the spirit in which the work is done makes it of value with God.” (Christ's Object Lessons p. 397).

“Our heavenly Father has a thousand ways to provide for us of which we know nothing. Those who accept the one principle of making the service of God supreme, will find perplexities vanish and a plain path before their feet.” (The Ministry of Healing, p. 481).

“But when we give ourselves wholly to God and in our work follow His directions, He makes Himself responsible for its accomplishment. He would not have us conjecture as to the success of our honest endeavors. Not once should we even think of failure. We are to co-operate with One who knows no failure.” (Christ's Object Lessons, p. 363).

“Let us not forget that as activity increases, and we become successful in doing the work that must be accomplished, there is danger of our trusting in human plans and methods. There will be a tendency to pray less, and to have less faith. We shall be in danger of losing our sense of dependence upon God, who alone can make our work succeed; but although this is the tendency, let no one think that the human instrument is to do less. No, he is not to do less, but to do more by accepting the heavenly gift, the Holy Spirit.” (Christian Service, p. 98).

“I was shown God's people waiting for some change to take place—a compelling power to take hold of them. But they will be disappointed, for they are wrong. They must act, they must take hold of the work themselves and earnestly cry to God for a true knowledge of themselves. The scenes which are passing before us are of sufficient magnitude to cause us to arouse and urge the truth home to the hearts of all who will listen. The harvest of the earth is nearly ripe.” (Testimonies for the Church, vol. 1, p. 261).

“Those who have sought for the development and perfection of Christian character by exercising their faculties in good works, will, in the world to come, reap that which they have sown. The work begun upon earth will reach its consummation in that higher and holier life to endure throughout eternity.” (Thoughts from the Mount of Blessing, p. 83).

“To be a co-worker with Christ and the heavenly angels in the great plan of salvation! What work can bear any comparison with this! From every soul saved there comes to God a revenue of glory to be reflected upon the one saved and also upon the one instrumental in his salvation.” (Testimonies for the Church, vol. 2, p. 232).

“The Lord has a great work to be done, and He will bequeath the most in the future life to those who do the most faithful, willing service in the present life.” (Christ's Object Lessons p. 330).

“God does not generally work miracles to advance His truth. If the husbandman neglects to cultivate the soil, God works no miracle to counteract the sure results. He works according to great principles made known to us, and it is our part to mature wise plans, and set in operation the means whereby God shall bring about certain results. Those who make no decided effort, but simply wait for the Holy Spirit to compel them to action, will perish in darkness. You are not to sit still and do nothing in the work of God.” (Christian Service, p. 228).
